Career Objective

Having worked at Softvence Delta as a Sales Executive and gained experience working with clients to sell full-stack CMS websites, I have been promoted to the position of Project Management Executive at Assignoholic Research and Consultancy. In this role, I am engaged in work with projects, addressing difficult issues, and offering useful solutions. My tasks will involve managing international student research and thesis undertakings, ensuring an efficient operation, facilitating effective interactions amongst students, scholars, and research units, and delivering quality outcomes. With practical experience in the MERN stack and CMS development, I also effectively organise projects, ensuring the successful delivery of highquality software. I believe that as an IT professional, I will always keep on learning and developing, and my priority is to make my project and company successful.
